6. Family-centered care
7. Culturally sensitive care

The association will act as the voice of the international community on neonatal issues. It would allow neonatologists from all over the world to work together on common problems, sharing the world's expertise and disseminating important information to areas that have little or no access. This association would provide neonatologists the opportunity to influence health policy.

To date over 36 countries are represented with Georgia being the latest added.
